ROSS TO OPPOSE BORAH IN FALL

Townsend Candidates Apparently Defeated Roundly In Primaries

(International News Service)
BOISE, IDAHO, Aug. 12.—William E. Borah, 71-year-old veteran Idaho senator who is seeking his sixth term after 30 years of service in the nation's capitol, was assured of the Republican senatorial nomination today over his Townsend backed candidate, Byron Defenbach.
Borah's commanding lead was not changed as new returns from the state's 850 precincts were tabulated. Returns from 100 precincts gave: Borah 8,188; Defenbach 5,687.
Governor C. Ben Ross, seeking the Democratic senatorial nomination, held a lead over J. A. Carver, United States district attorney.
The same number of precincts gave:
Ross 3,516; Carver 2,470.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 12.—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, senate majority leader, today apparently had won his fight for re-election over two opponents as further returns from the state's Democratic primary election were tabulated.
The veteran of political wars who has served 30 years in Washington, was enjoying a four to one lead over

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Aug. 12.—Colonel Frank Knox in his speech at Connersville, Indiana, delivered a smashing indictment of the New Deal and outlined in graphic strokes the bill we must pay for the waste and extravagance that have run riot for three years in Washington.
There is of course nothing unusual in an attack by a candidate on the policies of his opponents. It would on the contrary be remarkable if he didn't hit at them. But the Republican vice presidential nominee displayed a fairness that is distinctly unusual in a politician warming up to campaign temperature, when he gave credit to the administration for several of its measures. The compliment was limited and qualified, it is true, but nevertheless definite. Unless memory betrays me no New Dealer has ever admitted the worth of anything done by a recent Republican administration.
Like Governor Landon last week, Colonel Knox emphasized partnership and co-operation as preferable to group competition and suspicion. In contrast to the class appeal of the New Deal this is a doctrine of which we can't hear too much.

An Ancient Landmark Gives Way To The Years

A portion of New York's Fulton Fish Market building, famous the country over, collapsed when the piling in the East river gave way. One man was seriously injured. This picture, taken from the river, shows the extent of the collapse. Only the fact that it took place shortly after midnight prevented injury and possible death to scores employed in the famous old markets. Al Smith once was employed there.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Bargain-seeking shoppers lined the streets and crowded the doorways of downtown business houses many hours before opening time this morning in hopes of securing the most select of the Dollar Day bargains.

Dear Sir:
August 11.
We noticed an answer to our letter of August 8 in today's edition of The News, but we cannot believe that this is a shooting star, as it is still visible, although much farther south. To our knowledge a shooting star is visible for only a moment and we have watched this particular star for three consecutive evenings. It moves slower and a shorter distance than does a shooting star, and so we are still wondering.

Holiday On All Sermons? Local Pastors Give Views

The effect of startling statements made by the Rev. Dr. Frederic S. Approached by a News staff writer New Castle's prominent pastors gave varying opinions, some of which are contained in the following paragraphs:

Compromise Thought To Be Ready For Judicial Approval This Afternoon

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—Settlement of the Mary Astor custody suit appeared a certainty here today when attorneys for both sides announced that a conference had been called in the judge's chambers before court is resumed.
It was indicated that, after frantic all night conferences, a tentative agreement had been reached, but that the judge's approval was needed before definite announcement could be made.
The sensational case is scheduled to be resumed this afternoon in Superior Judge Goodwin J. Knight's court. It was delayed yesterday while beautiful Auburn-haired Miss Astor was being cross-examined on her relations with other men.

Auto Car Owners Report Damages To Automobiles

Some automobilists are considerably vexed today, the result of their automobiles being damaged while parked outside the wrestling arena at Centennial field last night.
Some of them visited the police station following the matches and made reports, written and verbal to police authorities and others today told of the damage to Mayov Charles E. McGrath.
Promoter Peter Askounes said he employed four policemen to prevent persons from damaging his fence. The police assisted in the parking of cars outside the arena. No charge was made for parking.
The police guarded the fence but in the meantime it was alleged by car owners persons outside the arena clambered all over cars, stood on roofs and the machines not only were covered with mud but also damaged considerably.
Gasoline tank caps were stolen, windshield wipers broken, locks tampered with and air let out of tires. The cars treated thus were parked on the north side, outside the arena.

Democratic Ox-Roast Postponed To Aug. 29

In a statement made today, Democratic County Chairman John B. Shaw stated that the ox-roast and rally planned by the party for August 22 in Cascade Park had been postponed until Saturday, August 29.
"Several reasons have actuated this decision," said Mr. Shaw. First, we feel that with New Castle established as the headquarters for the Landon rally at West Middlesex on August 22 it would be only courteous upon our part to do nothing that would add to the traffic congestion that is certain to occur. Second, as citizens of the district we feel that there should be no counter attractions that would tend to keep people away from an event honoring a distinguished native son of Mercer county.
"We had selected August 22 as the date for our rally and ox-roast before the Landon date was announced. At the time we announced August 22 as our date it was understood that the Landon rally would be later in the month but no definite date had been announced.
"For these reasons we have concluded that it would be much better if we held our rally on the succeeding Saturday and accordingly have done so."

Thousands Of Fire Fighters In Minnesota-Wisconsin Near Exhaustion

GREAT PINE FORESTS FACE ANNIHILATION

(International News Service)
DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 12.—Rain forecast by the government weather bureau was eagerly awaited by the thousands of men fighting roaring flames in the great pine forests of Minnesota and Wisconsin today.
In Minnesota where thousands of acres of timber land in the Superior national forest preserve have been swept by fire, men were rushed to Beltrami Island to battle a new blaze which broke out yesterday in the Beltrami national forest.
Exhausted fighters continued to battle flames in the Brule river section of northern Wisconsin. The death of Lester Brundum, 16, of Sparta, overcome by a heart attack while fighting on the fire line, brought the nation's death toll from the timber fires the past week to five.

United States To Maintain Strict Neutrality Stand

Cannot Affect Shipments To Spain As War Is A 'Civil' One

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The American government will maintain a policy of "sempulpos non-intervention" in Spain's bloody civil war.
This was made plain to jittery European powers today in an emphatic but informal neutrality proclamation.

Completely Aloof
Inspired by President Roosevelt, the precedent-shattering move reiterated the policy the United States has pursued of remaining completely aloof from European entanglements since post-world war days.
The manner in which America's stand in the Spanish crisis was made known added a new and brilliant page to diplomatic history.
It effectively blocked a reported move by the French government to seek America's adherence to a pact with major European powers pledging non-intervention in blood-drenched Spain.

The United States put itself on record without conversations or exchange of notes with any European power.

Fed 'Love Drops' Woman Testifies

Ellwood City B.ide Seeks To Have Martial Bond Severed

BEAVER, Pa., Aug. 12.—He fed her chocolate "love drops" and wooed her into marriage, Mrs. Cecilia Fanno, 19, of Ellwood City, testified today in her hearing for an absolute divorce before Attorney Howard W. Dillan, the master.
Mrs. Fanno said that during her days of courtship, when Fanno called upon her, he produced a bag of chocolates. After eating these, she said, "I felt very love-like. It made me lose my mind, sort of."
In the libel filed by the father of Mrs. Fanno, George Kostaka, it was charged Fanno induced the girl to marry him through the use of druged confectons and by threats.
They were married in New Castle, May 2, 1935, and Mrs. Fanno testified she never lived with her husband, but ran off to visit an aunt in Detroit soon after the ceremony.

F. D. R. TO TOUR FLOOD AREAS

State Prepares For Presidential Visit Thursday

President Roosevelt To See For Himself Damage Wrought By Floods

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR CONTROL WORK

By FREDERICK POLANGIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 12.—As Pennsylvania prepared to welcome Franklin D. Roosevelt, who comes here tomorrow to inspect the flood-stricken areas, state authorities today were completing the ground work for a comprehensive flood control program.

State Moving.
When the nation's chief executive arrives in Pennsylvania with an entourage of army engineers and flood control groups, he will find the commonwealth moving quickly to prevent recurrence of the St. Patrick's day disaster by paving the way for a cooperative program with its sister states and the federal government.

Preliminary plans for an extensive flood-control survey have already been completed, Charles E. Ryder, chief engineer of the forests and waters department, announced. Further, he revealed that cooperation with U. S. army authorities in conducting the survey has already been assured in the Susquehanna river basin following a conference yesterday with Lieut. Col. E. J. Dent, U. S. district army engineer, of Baltimore.

Similar arrangements, he said, whereby the state and federal government can work on a more efficient basis, are expected shortly for the Delaware and Ohio river basins. Acting under the authority of legislation passed at the recent extraordinary legislative session, Ryder said, the department will take the following steps:

- "1. A study in connection with the possible location of storage reservoirs.
- "2. An estimate of the damages in the recent and past floods.
- "3. Gathering of information in the rate of water run off during flood periods.
- "4. Construction of the 'flood profile', consisting of a survey of the high-water marks during flood stages.
- "5. History and frequency of floods in Pennsylvania and neighboring states in comparison with the damage resulting. This is to weigh the economic possibilities of flood control.
- "6. Possibility of local protection by dikes and similar barriers."

Granted $50,000.
The department of forests and waters was granted a $50,000 state allocation to carry on this preliminary work, Ryder explained, pointing out that the federal funds have also been appropriated for the same work which will be available for the state through the mutual assistance arrangement with federal authorities.

With the completion of the study which will begin shortly, Ryder said, the state will be ready for the final stage—the transposing of paper plans into dams, dykes and reservoirs in cooperation with the federal government and other states. "Although I deem a reforestation program necessary, unfortunately a study to that end is impossible now because the general assembly refused to provide for it," he said. "But, that will come later; at least, we're off to a fine start."

"We will attack this problem from a scientific, long range point of view so that the recurrence of disastrous floods will be impossible."

The population of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, estimated at more than 9,000,000 in 1884, dwindled to approximately 2,000,000 under Dervish misrule through war, famine and disease. Under British rule since 1898, the population has increased until today it is said to total 5,000,000.

ST. VITUS WILL CELEBRATE ITS THIRTIETH YEAR

ation to the feast of the Assumption, with the pastor of the church, the Rev. Father N. DeMita, in charge.

The masses Saturday morning will be at 6:30, 8, 9:30 and 10:45 o'clock. The 9:30 will be a children's mass and the 10:45 solemn high mass, accompanied by the talented St. Vitus Male Choir under the direction of B. J. Biondi and the organist, E. Lacko.

Rev. Fr. DeMita will officiate at the first two masses, and his assistant pastor, Rev. Fr. S. F. Anuszkiewicz, the latter two. In the solemn high mass, (Father Anuszkiewicz, celebrant) Father DeMita will be deacon and will deliver the special sermon and Nicholas Biondi, will be sub-deacon.

Anticipate Crowd
An immense crowd is anticipated at the last mass in view of the combined facts that it is an important religious holiday and that it marks the 30th birthday of the church edifice.

At the close of the mass there will be Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

It was on August 15, 1906 that the cornerstone of St. Vitus church was laid and blessed by the late Archbishop Canavin in the presence of thousands of people, and a year later on the same date, August 15, 1907, was the solemn dedication of the present beautiful church under a two-fold patronage, that of St. Vitus and the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

This yearly glorious festival of the Assumption is an occasion for great religious pride and joy to all of the parishioners.

Hand in hand with the history of St. Vitus church goes the history of a wonderful service given to its people by Rev. Fr. Nicholas DeMita.

Here In 1905
Father DeMita came to New Castle on the first day of October, 1905, one year before the cornerstone of the church was placed, and from that day to this he has given faithful and untiring work for the welfare and progress and comfort of the Italian-American people in the parish and community.

He is not only founder of the church but the originator of the Italian Day Celebration. This celebration is an enthusiastic demonstration now in its fourth consecutive year and promises to attract many thousands to Cascade Park Saturday afternoon and evening.

UNITED STATES TO MAINTAIN STRICT NEUTRALITY STAND

government would have put this nation in the embarrassing position of having to reject it formally.

Instead, the neutrality pronouncement was made by Acting Secretary of State William Phillips in a note of instructions to all American consular and diplomatic officers in strife-torn Spain.

Consuls Notified

It read: "In conformity with its well established policy of non-interference with internal affairs in other countries, either in time of peace or in the event of civil strife, this government will, of course, scrupulously refrain from any interference whatsoever in the unfortunate Spanish situation.

"We believe that American citizens, both at home and abroad are patriotically observing this well recognized American policy."

The State department, in making the attitude of this government clear, hopes to persuade American manufacturers of airplanes, arms, munitions and other implements of war to refrain from selling to Spain during the present disorders.

However, the government is powerless to prevent such sales. Only "moral suasion" can be used. A similar attempt was made during the Italo-Ethiopian war to discourage commodity shipments.

Forbid Arms
But in the instance of the African war, the neutrality act was invoked to forbid shipments of arms, munitions and implements of war to both Italy and Ethiopia. The neutrality act cannot be applied in the Spanish civil war because it concerns only nations warring against each other.

Two airplane companies which had been given tentative orders from Spain were shown the department's instructions to the diplomatic corps when they applied for clarification of the law on such shipments.

Railroads Booking Many Special Trains

Gov. Alf M. Landon's own special train and 10 other specials carrying Republican delegations from many points have already been routed over the Pennsylvania railroad to the West Middlesex celebration on August 22.

Superintendent Norman M. Lawrence announced at Erie and Ashtabula division offices here today. "There is no indication," the superintendent said, "of Gov. Landon's train stopping here enroute to West Middlesex."

The Republican presidential nominee and his party will likely proceed direct to West Middlesex after reaching here at 1:20 p. m. on Saturday, the 22nd, the railroad believes. His train will halt at the new 14-car length platform erected at his birthplace town for his visit.

"We have about 10 trains scheduled now, and there may be more," Mr. Lawrence stated.

Whether special train accommodations will be offered New Castle residents desiring to go to West Middlesex via rail was not known today. Superintendent Lawrence said he had no word on that matter as yet.

Leaving West Middlesex the train of Gov. Landon will return to New Castle, according to the schedule as it now stands, and probably stop at a point near the Wetside depot.

Gov. Landon will detain at the depot here and go to The Castleton soon after the train reaches here on the return, it is believed.

Superintendent Lawrence stressed today that many of the train plans are still in the making and that the Landon train arrangements could be altered before August 22.

to find peace within when there is no peace without. In my opinion the church must again develop a sense of mission and feel deeply its responsibility for the society of which the church is a very real part. Preaching can present vital issues. It can challenge men's living and thinking. This is no time to dispense with such activity."

Rev. A. M. Stump, of St. Paul's Lutheran church, believes that the statements made were unimportant and says that he has not given them any thought.

On the other hand, Rev. Philip C. Pearson, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, was very much interested but is reserving his judgment until he reads the complete story in the two national weeklies of the Episcopal church.

Raises Questions

"Many questions are raised in my mind," Rev. Pearson declared. "Is Dr. Fleming a sermon hater? Evidently he believes the pulpit has lost its power. Why? Does he think the same man is required by the routine customs of his church to preach too often? Suppose no sermons should be preached in any church in this country for two years, what would be the effect? What would be gained? What would be lost? I will be interested to learn all of Dr. Fleming's views on the subject."

Rev. Pearson was at one time a member of the clergy staff of Trinity church at the head of Wall street, New York City, of which Dr. Fleming is the rector. He met the New York man at the General Convention of 1925 in New Orleans, La., and has heard him speak.

started to slow down for the New Castle yards. According to Gibbs, his companion was starting to get off the car in which they had been riding, a gondola, when it jerked as the air was applied to slow down, and he was hurled under the wheels.

The body was badly mangled, one of the arms being found an eighth of a mile from the body.

Gibbs alighted and boarded the caboose, informing members of the train crew of the incident. The crew consisted of R. T. Bruce, engineer; C. C. Lauderbach, conductor; and Jay Knight, brakeman, of Connellsville. They notified B. & O. Detective Lawrence Gibson, who summoned Coroner Orville Potter. The body was removed to Leyde's morgue, awaiting identification.

The body is expected to be identified today, as the man met people he knew in McKeesport. Gibbs stated, and the latter will go there today in an effort to contact them. According to Gibbs, the man told him his home was in Charleston, W. Va., and that he had served time in Atlanta. If other means of identification fail, his fingerprints will be forwarded to Atlanta.

"QUILTING BEE" IS BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

In observance of the birthday today of Mrs. W. R. McKnight, a congenial group of neighbors and friends dropped in casually at her home at 916 Beckford street, Tuesday evening, to extend greetings.

The honoree was completely surprised as she was quietly quilting, in company with two friends who had come earlier. From time to time, others arrived, until the "quilting bee" assumed large proportions, some 21 being present.

After they had presented Mrs. McKnight with lovely presents, they had a delightful evening playing games, one of which was a clever advertising contest in which Mrs. J. Albert Wilson was the fortunate winner. Miss Cora Boyles was awarded a prize for bingo.

At an appropriate time, tasty refreshments were served by the instigators of the affair, two daughters-in-law, Mrs. Lawrence McKnight and Mrs. Earl R. McKnight, and their aunt, Mrs. Irene McKnight.

It is interesting to note that the occasion also marked the birthday of the grandson of the honoree, Gordon McKnight, who was 14 years of age. Birthday cakes which were luscious, formed a part of the refreshments.

"AS MAINE GOES"

MAINE will vote September 8 for governor, United States senator and three members of the house of representatives, and the consequence is that between now and then the state will reverberate to oratory by outside national speakers of both parties. It is a racket. The early Maine election puts the major parties on the qui vive. That is because of the old, but undemonstrable, adage, "As Maine goes, so goes the presidential election." Therefore the national committees pour in speakers and the state committees are so much in pocket.

Professor Claude E. Robinson of Columbia University in June, 1932, published a long and analytical article in The Political Science Quarterly to demonstrate reliance on the prophecy was not to be had. Along came September. Maine went Democratic with a whoop and two months later Roosevelt won. The prophecy worked that time anyway.

So it has worked seventeen out of twenty-four times in the elections from 1840 to 1932, inclusive. There is, however, a joker in it. Maine is normally a strongly Republican state just as the country since 1856, or over a period of eighty years, has been normally Republican. Other states might be taken as goosebones for prophecy with just as substantial justification. The only reason they are not is the simple one their votes are not recorded until the presidential votes are.

There is, of course, a psychological merit, but not a measurable one, in getting Maine to go the way of one's own party. That vests in the hope that a certain element of the electorate, which follows the trend and wants to be jubilant on election night as supporters of the winning side, may be influenced. This accounts for the fact, among others, that in the eighteen years between 1910 and 1928 the hardened Maine voters had to listen to three former presidents or vice presidents, forty-three United States senators, thirteen cabinet officers, 138 representatives in congress, twenty-two governors and others too numerous to name.

REVIVED

It is pleasant to note in the current news that the box-vanity, nee makeup box of a past and rougher day, has been revived and is one of the most treasured exhibits of the current National Fashion Accessories Show in New York. The box-vanity, in case you do not know it already, is of close approximation to the inevitable handbag, but concealing within it everything that does to make the Lovely Sex even lovelier.

More males should greet the fad with a sigh of relief, for when compact, lip-stick and all the other requisites for a "new paint-job" are securely ensconced in a bag designed to hold them there is less danger of having to stoop and retrieve assorted objects for fluttery femmes.

To put the box-vanity on an even more exalted level, leather ones "come" to match footwear. Vanity being a harmless quality, immemorially associated with the right kind of shoes on the equally right kind of foot, the box-vanity allied with pedal vanity seems as right as rain. The present renaissance has much to commend it.

GOING AMERICAN

Largest in area and most thinly populated of the General American republics, Nicaragua stands forth as having the right idea about glorifying the Nicaraguan Girl according to the American standard. Cigarettes have increased tenfold in sales among the fair sex by the adoption of American methods in advertising, with beauty contests and all among the young ladies who affect the weed and the grand prize a chance to go to Hollywood as guest of a film company in the hope of breaking into the movies.

All sorts of methods have been followed to attain this laudable object, but smoking cigarettes has not, up to now, been the leading road to fame. There is no basic reason why it should not be, however. Some deeply dyed pessimists have been heard to wonder out loud just why and this may be an answer.

Grasping firmly its nettle, Nicaragua does American grandly, and results prove the soundness of the theory, at least from the viewpoint of the cigarette company. The nation will await, palpitantly, the final choice of the Nicaraguan Mary Pickford.

A few idle days sustain the hope that the backbone of summer has been broken.

There are but three ways to get money without labor: Find it, steal it, or say: "Darling, will you marry me?"

Starting a summer resort is easy. You just get a lot of uncomfortable beds and give the houses silly names.

Where, in the present pressing emergency, is the prominent Vienna physician who clears up any condition with yeast?

While reluctant to interfere with advertising lineage, we are nevertheless constrained to question if anything is to be gained by exploiting the beauty, the charm and the romance of Spain at the present moment.

When the U. S. presidential derby gets up full steam, or whatever it is that a derby does when it gets into full swing—if a derby can be said to be in full swing when it really hits stride—Canadians will be justified in thinking civil war has broken out nearer home than in Spain.

England Learns, Also.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

EUROPE learns that political experiments cost money. England decided to prevent Mussolini taking Ethiopia, camping along the imperial British highway and controlling Lake Tana, source of Nile water. The attempt failed.

ENGLAND backed out of that situation, hastily, after her war department had assured the so-called War Department in Washington that Mussolini could not possibly conquer Ethiopia in less than three years, probably not at all.

When the dust had settled and England, with her chicken-feed assortment of 51 League nations, had apologized to Mussolini, and tossed Haile Selassie into the waste-basket, England found her foreign commerce much damaged. She had misused Mussolini and shot herself in the pocketbook. For a little while she will copy Job:

"I will lay mine hand upon my mouth. Once have I spoken yea twice, but I will proceed no further."

PARIS, which is France, decided to sing and dance a new Carmagnole with Russian dressing; clenched fists raised in air a la Russe, red flag waving, the doleful strains of the Communist hymn L'Internationale and its Communist injunction, "excellently sung from the Arc de Triomphe to the Place de la Bastille."

You can hardly imagine what fire, fury and enthusiasm thousands of young and old French gentlemen put into that hymn, although many of them showed outward signs of starvation.

THERE WERE and are manifestations everywhere. Now in the Chamber of Deputies, Monsieur Caston Gerard, practical French statesman, asks:

"What has become of our foreign tourists and their spending money?"

MONSIEUR GERARD tells the deputies something must be done. In 1927, two million, one hundred and twenty-five thousand foreigners from all over the world visited France, spending much money.

Visitors now number only seven hundred thousand, as a rule with little money to spend—oysters containing no pearls. Many that come to help sing L'Internationale bring no money.

FOREIGN VISITORS, says M. Gerard, used to give highly paid employment to half a million French men and women; spent five hundred million francs for French railroad and steamship tickets; twelve to fifteen thousand millions of francs.

Fifteen billions, even in francs, are "real money" here. M. Gerard tells the chamber French prices are too high. There is something in that, with the four-cent franc cost of six to seven cents in the United States—a comic opera situation, considering the relative wealth of the two nations.

M. Gerard thinks there should be some cabinet official to look after foreigners, with better propaganda and fewer vexatious taxes on foreigners; there is nothing in that.

FOREIGNERS do not voluntarily travel and spend money where they feel they are not wanted. The cosmopolitan, educated Frenchmen is as polite and hospitable as ever; but ask him what sort of reception the crowd gives to the foreigner, British especially. It offends the British to hear a bas anglais ("down with the British").

An innocent average American, in an innocent average American automobile, sallied forth on July 14 to help France celebrate the destruction of the Bastille, and perhaps give a few feeble cheers for Lafayette, or Woodrow Wilson, or somebody.

Great crowds in the Champs Elysees, especially around the innocent American car, with new paint, shiny chromium and several cylinders. A polite policeman says, "monieur should know better than to appear in a car of 'grand luxury' on such a day."

Such luxury cars you may see by the thousands and millions on American roads; but the paint and metal were shiny.

NOTHING HAPPENS to the car of grand luxury; it crosses the avenue of the Champs Elysees, about 300 feet, in less than twenty minutes.

The French, newly self-identified as "prisoners of starvation" are interested. Especially the fastest prisoners, "that dislike walking, are interested in the 'auto American.'" (Continued On Page Five)

Townsend Not Strong
Primaries Reveal Weakness
Coalition May Be Underrated

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

IN SPITE OF AN unprecedented campaign uproar, the Townsend-Coughlins are not winning in the primary elections.

They are showing some strength in districts where they are strongest but not nearly enough to win top place.

Some political leaders, therefore, believe that the peak has been reached.

But a similar assumption caused the downfall of the liberal Social Democrats of Germany. A sudden emotional nationalism swept the nation into Nazism, although the Social Democrats were the majority party.

Coming down to the present day, observers point out that a Popular Front government in Spain, overwhelmingly elected, is defied in bloody revolution by Fascist-militarists. And because that duly elected government is crippled by the revolt and cannot control a minority group of radical extremists, we see the Fascist rebels (who could command hardly any of the popular vote of Spain) receiving the support of powerful countries—receiving support even from elements of the American population.

We can tell—ask some close those same elements in the American population will not hit upon a popular catch-phrase, emotionally nationalistic, which might sweep the United States into Fascistic grasp?

The constant assertions made by the leaders of the Townsend-Coughlin group that they are the only bulwarks against Communism are little different in wording from the manifestos of Fascist leaders in Europe. Read the latest pronouncements of General Franco, leader in the field of the Spanish Fascist-militarists. He, incidentally, the general who announced he would shoot at sight all workers and soldiers who aided the duly constituted and duly elected government of Spain.

INTIMIDATION
The intimidation of congressmen by the Townsend-Coughlin group has reached proportions of a dictatorship already—that is, if the dictatorship would work in elections.

In Idaho, which has a small population, 75,000 letters were sent out in an effort to replace Senator William E. Borah with a Townsendite in the primary election.

But that is nothing compared to the violent speeches made against representatives for congress in highly populated districts. There, a sort of oratorical appeal, with all sorts of threats and name-calling, are the order of the night.

The congressmen are not judged on his record to the people, but solely on the basis of whether he subscribes to the demands of the Townsend-Coughlin group.

Eventually, of course, in a nation where there is secret ballot, intimidation begins to have a reverse effect.

That is what the Roosevelt Democrats believe.

And that is what the more moderate Republicans believe.

FUNDAMENTAL DESIRE
The Townsend-Coughlins have been able to gain as many votes as they have because of an inherent desire in the mass of people to better themselves.

There is a genuine desire in the United States for a third party for a breaking away from the old parties.

This mass of people is in itself not intolerant, not Fascistic, nor Communist.

It desires, and prays, for a more secure life, a broadening of democracy rather than restricting of democracy.

If it rushes in the opposite direction momentarily it is because it has been ensnared by catchwords and promises—and mistakes its true friends for its enemies. True friends can promise no easy road—for there is none.

A lady and her little daughter were rounding out a holiday afternoon in town by doing some unimportant shopping at a five-and-ten store. Finally, they found themselves standing at the tropical fish counter, looking at small, quagga turtles in a glass bowl. The daughter decided she wanted one, and asked the salesgirl the price.

"You wouldn't want one of those turtles, dearie," the salesgirl said, "They're all dead."

"You should have kept water in the bowl," the lady said, severely. "No wonder they're dead."

"They've been dead for a week," the salesgirl told her calmly. Then why, mother and daughter wanted to know, did the store keep them?

"Because," came the patient answer, "we're saving them for inventory."

THE CROW
The noisy crow at dawn begins. To boast his many crimes and sins And standing on the topmost tree Proclaims his pilferings to me.

This inky pirate of the sky Disturbs my slumbers with his cry And deeper stains his thieving breed By robbing me of sleep I need.

Still as I hear his raucous call I'm well contented, after all, For silence from the crow attests That he is robbing worthier nests.

I watch his kinder neighbors fly In terror when a crow draws nigh And hasten home their young to shield Against this vandal of the field.

Why must the happy song birds know So fierce an enemy as the crow And why should crows their skill employ Always to ravage and destroy?

Fish Market Collapses In New York City

Famous Fulton Street Fish Market Buckles And Slides Into River

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Fulton fish market, for more than a quarter of a century an East river landmark and once scene of the labor of Al Smith, was a crumbled mass of wreckage Tuesday.

With the ripping sound which accompanies earthquakes, the ancient piling of the structure collapsed and the market, groaning and heaving, slowly crumpled, dropping half-way into the river.

George Clark, 73, night watchman, was critically injured when the market fell. He was sorting clams with George Casey, a younger man, when they heard the tearing sound and saw the walls around them begin to buckle in.

Watchman Saved.
The watchman was hit by falling debris. Disabled, he was dragged to safety by Casey as the building slid riverward. There was no one else in the place, which during daylight hours is filled with bargaining fishermen and fish peddlers.

A two-and-a-half story frame building erected on piles over the river, extended along South street between Beekman and Fulton streets. The market—though not this particular building—has been there since 1870. Fishing vessels came in from the sea to unload their catches there, and the market's bins and stands received the bulk of all fish sold in Manhattan.

Alfred E. Smith got $12 a week for working there as a boy. Among his duties was spotting approaching fishing boats with a telescope and estimating, by size of the draft, the probable size of the day's catch.

A scratch on dark furniture, says Barbara Stanwyck, movie player, may be covered with ordinary tincture of iodine. When the iodine dries the mark may be finished with furniture polish.

On Court House Hill

Judge W. Walter Braham has just handed down two opinions which recall the controversy of whether or not former county commissioners were entitled to $3000 for serving as commissioners and an additional $600 for serving as a poor board.

The point involved grew out of the pay for counsel employed by a taxpayers committee, which took exceptions to a joint report of county auditors and the controller, and later a report of the controller. Attorneys employed by this special committee were Clarence Patterson and Willie McCaslin.

One of the suits was entitled the County of Lawrence against Calvin C. Boyd, Thomas J. McCullough and P. O. Elder and the other County of Lawrence against A. E. Conner, F. R. Woods and P. O. Elder.

In 1931 Boyd, McCullough and Elder were commissioners. Each was paid $3000 as county commissioner and drew $600 additional as directors of the poor, as counties of the sixth class prior to 1931 commissioners had been made directors of the poor. They believed that the acts of the legislature, up to that time, entitled them to the $600 compensation as poor directors.

For the year 1931 the county auditors and the county controller filed a combined report, the controller not having served a year at the time the report was filed.

In September, 1932, a committee of ten taxpayers, through Clarence Patterson and Willie McCaslin, filed an appeal from the consolidated report on the grounds that the county commissioners were not entitled to the $600 for acting as a poor board. In February, 1933, the county controller filed a report for 1932. Another appeal was filed by taxpayers in which it was alleged that $400 each had been paid the then county commissioners for acting as a poor board. Issues were framed in both cases.

As a result of the proceedings based on the 1931 audit judgment was entered in favor of the county for $1,991.70. No judgment was ever taken on the issue of 1932, which was based on the controller's report, but the sum of $1200 or $400 each was repaid by the county commissioners in view of the judgment entered in the first proceeding which established the fact that the commissioners could not draw pay for acting as a poor board.

The question then came before the court as to the payment of counsel for the taxpayers out of county funds. Judge Braham finds in his opinion that the law makes provision for paying attorneys out of county funds as to appeals from auditors' reports but not from controllers.

In the joint report of auditors and the controllers in 1931, he finds that the county benefitted to the extent of $1,825.73, on that portion of the report attributable to the auditors.

In accordance with the law providing for the payment of counsel in appeals from auditors' reports, he awards Attorneys Clarence Patterson and Willie McCaslin $250 to be divided equally or as they may agree. In the case in which an appeal was taken from the controller's report, the petition for counsel fees is refused for the reasons stated in the 1931 appeal.

During the years in which the county commissioners drew $600 for acting as a poor board, it was believed that they had the right to do this under the law as it existed and in view of the practice in other counties, but subsequent legislation rendered obsolete the act upon which they relied. The overpayments which were made to commissioners have all been returned to the county, and there is now a clear understanding that county commissioners get $3,000 per year for acting as commissioners and also as poor directors.

Special Halves Will Honor Barnum

Late Circus Magnate Will Be Honored By Special Issue Of 25,000 Halves

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The treasury today gave official recognition to the world's greatest exponent of ballyhoo and buncombe.

For use of the Bridgeport, Conn., centennial celebration, the government will mint 25,000 special half dollars bearing the profile of the late P. T. Barnum, 19th century circus wizard and showman, whose philosophy was "There is a fool born every minute."

The design for the new coin has been approved by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and the commission on fine arts. The standard motto "In God We Trust" will be engraved on the coin instead of Barnum's philosophical observation. Barnum's profile will be on one side and the American eagle on the other.

Connecticut authorities requested Barnum be honored for his philanthropic and civic contributions.

Late Justice Frazer's Estate Set At $90,000

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12.—Pennsylvania Supreme Court Justice Robert S. Frazer, who died here July 31, left an estate valued at $90,000, his will, filed for probate, revealed.

The bulk of the estate was willed to his three children, with several small charitable bequests also included. After setting aside a gift of $300 for the First Presbyterian church at Johnstown, Pa.; $500 to the house for crippled children here, and two bequests to friends for $300 and $6,000, Judge Frazer divides his estate into four parts for his children.

Equal fourths are willed to his sons, John G. and Robert E. Frazer, and to his daughter, Miss Sarah B. Frazer. The other quarter is left in trust for Miss Frazer and reverts to the estate, of which John Frazer is executive, at the time of her death.

Virgin Timber Is Being Devastated By Raging Flames

BOUGHTON, Mich., Aug. 12.—With 30,000 acres of virgin timber on Isle Royale devastated by a raging forest fire, the U. S. coast guard today made preparations to evacuate the famous Michigan summer resort, if necessary.

About one-tenth of the Lake Superior island now has been burned over, but none of the 500 summer residents there was in danger.

Paris, as hectic as Billy Sunday's old sawdust trail, has no fast-spending foreigners. In the Ritz-Carlton, on the Place Vendôme, where Napoleon looks down from his bronze column, only one American was to be seen—one that happened to be an exact mental and physical duplicate of Bonaparte, same height, same courage, connected with the American law firm of White and Case, which has an office on the place Vendôme, and does business, even to the music of the "Internationale."

That young lawyer could have made a living in Carthage, the week after the Romans left, but he is sorry about France.

"Why I went to the races, biggest event of the Paris social season. Ordinarily I would meet all Palm Beach and Fifth Avenue there, and I saw just two Americans, to speak to. Think of that, will you?"

And that man knows everybody in America worth five million dollars or more. His acquaintance is diminishing, by the way.

Electric Fences Now Teach Hogs To Know Places

(International News Service)
KENTON, O., Aug. 12.—Farmers in Hardin county are finding their new innovation—electrically charged fences—a success.

Using two barbed wires stretched six inches and one foot above the ground and electrically charged is an effective way of keeping their hogs in bounds, they found. The real advantage is the economy, the arrangement being much cheaper than the conventional fences.

Stakes are driven every three rods and the wires are attached with porcelain knobs.

A portable 300-yard fence may be built at less than $100 the farmers report. The wires are charged with 96 volts of electricity and a few jolts from it soon teach offending hogs to stay at home.

C. F. Lay, near Kenton, Daniel Terrill, near Alger, and Leonard Ram, near Ada, are using the idea.

Elaine Barrie And Barrymore Romance Ended

New York Society Girl
Breaks Her Engagement
To Aging Famous
Actor

(International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—John Barrymore, whose name entered the sensational Mary Astor custody hearing, has lost his Ariel.

That was the startling announcement here today of pretty Elaine Barrie, the actor's erstwhile fiancée and protegee.

Miss Barrie, who figured with Barrymore in the famous Caliban-Ariel romance, declined to state whether the fact that her Caliban had been mentioned as one of the "other men" in Miss Astor's lavender diary, had anything to do with her decision.

No Explanation
But she made it clear she was through.

"You can form whatever conclusions you wish," the former New York society girl said. "All I say is this: 'I have broken my engagement with Mr. Barrymore. Recent events have proved conclusively that it would be impossible for us to plan a happy married life together.'"

The middle-aged actor, meanwhile, was still confined to a sanatorium today where he is recovering from a heart ailment.

Orders Of Court Must Be Obeyed

Judge Chambers Makes This Plain At Hearing Of
Charles Longstreth

Charles Longstreth, who was placed in jail on a process for having failed to carry out an order of court, in connection with the support of his two children, had a hearing before Judge James A. Chambers this morning, at the conclusion of which he was remanded back to jail.

Longstreth and his wife, Olive M. Longstreth were divorced some time ago, and the court had made an order that he pay ten dollars every two weeks for the support of his children. When he failed to do this the process was issued.

It developed at the hearing that although he had received about $700 bonus money, none of it had been applied to the support of his children. He claimed that he had paid other bills with it. After Mrs. Longstreth had been placed upon the stand, Judge Chambers ended the case abruptly by saying that since Longstreth had considered other bills more important than payments under an order of court, he did not see anything else to do but to re-commit the defendant to the custody of the sheriff.

In his testimony Longstreth had maintained that he had been out of work and had been in poor health for some time was the reason he had not paid under the court's order. However, the court did not appear to be satisfied with his explanation of what had become of the bonus money.

Landon's Boyhood Chum Eagerly Awaits Arrival

No person in New Castle is looking forward more to the arrival of Governor Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, the Republican nominee for president, than Earl M. Kyle of North Jefferson street, a boyhood chum of the Kansas governor, and Kyle would like to be in the front row of those who greet Landon when he comes to New Castle in preparation for his opening campaign address at West Middlesex on August 22.

Kyle and Governor Landon spent many a happy day together in Greenville, where Landon as a boy spent his summers with his grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. William Mossman.

After Rev. Mossman retired from the ministry, he went to Greenville to live and there spent his last years. And there as a boy came Alfred M. Landon to spend his summers until the death of his grandparents.

Greenville was a small town and Kyle lived not far away from the Mossman home. Dr. Roy Mossman, a cousin of Governor Landon, Kyle and Alf Landon were members of the same group of boys who fished and swam and played together. Kyle's father, John B. Kyle, worked for the Erie railroad in Greenville, just across the street from where the Mossmans lived, and as a boy, Earl would go down where his father worked. Thus their friendship started.

It has been many years since Mr. Kyle has seen Governor Landon, and so he is looking forward with expectancy to the governor's visit here next week.

Ann Hewitt To Take Stand In Trial On Coast

Heiress Will Testify Against Two Doctors On Charge Of Mayhem

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—Paint brush in hand and daubing a canvas in her well-appointed apartment atop Nob Hill, Ann Cooper Hewitt, 21-year-old heiress, today announced herself ready to go to the hall of justice and take the witness stand "as soon as I am called".

The girl will be called as a witness when two prominent San Francisco doctors go to trial in supreme court accused of mayhem in connection with the sterilization of the heiress to the $10,000,000 fortune left by her father, the late Peter Cooper Hewitt, famed inventor.

Nothing To Conceal.
"I have nothing to conceal," Miss Hewitt said. "I can only tell the truth. My only desire is to see justice done and to be rid forever of the whole horrible affair."

The two physicians, Doctors Tilton E. Tillman and Samuel G. Boyd, were confident they would be acquitted of the charge.

Since the grand jury returned indictments several months ago against the doctors and Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt, mother of the girl, the doctors have persistently pointed out they had no criminal intent in carrying out the instructions of Mrs. Hewitt, now in the east.

The operation was performed while Ann was a minor after she was subjected to a series of intelligent tests, which showed, according to the doctors, that she was "below normal".

Summer Resort Is Evacuated

Raging Flames Force Residents Of Famous Isle Royal To Leave Today

FOREST FIRES ARE UNCONTROLLED

(International News Service)
HOUGHTON, Mich., Aug. 12.—One resort section on Isle Royale, famous Michigan summer playgrounds in Lake Superior, was evacuated today before spreading flames from a fierce forest fire which already has devastated nearly one fourth of the island.

Meantime on the mainland, nearly 100 fires were reported in Michigan timber country. Only a few of the latter were of serious proportion but one was out of control and conservation department officials said they were virtually helpless.

On the island, the resort section at Chippewa Harbor was being left to the mercy of the crackling flames. More than two score summer guests and sight-seers were evacuated yesterday and the motor ship, Mary Margaret, stood by to take off the resort keepers.

As soon as the resort owners, Holger Johnson, his wife and two daughters, Otto Olson and Dan Louman can complete transfer of their belongings to the motor ship, CCC fire-fighters planned to abandon the battle against the flames there.

The fire on that front was less than a mile from the lake, and will burn itself out when it reaches the shoreline. The Johnson lodge may be destroyed.

Medica Sets Olympic Mark

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—Already proved supreme in the diving, American swimming stars staged a surprise by polling first and fourth places in the men's 400-meter free style final today, with Jack Medica finishing first in the new Olympic record time of 4:45.

Uto and Makino of Japan took second and third places respectively in 4:45.6 and 4:48.1, both breaking the old Olympic mark of 4:48.4 set by Buster Crabbe of the United States at Los Angeles in 1932.

Fourth place went to young Ralph Planagan of Miami in 4:52.7, while Negami of Japan wound up fifth and Taxis of France sixth.

A Japanese clean sweep in the 400-meters would not have been unexpected, but Medica, the Seattle flash, exceeded best hopes held out for him by covering the distance in record time.

Extortionists Start Defense

Three Men Accused Of Extorting From Bannister To Present Case

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Using unpleasant innuendoes and alleged revelations of a scandalous nature as their weapons, the three men accused of extorting $2,000 from dapper Harry Bannister, ex-husband of beautiful Ann Harding, the film star, open their defense today.

The nature of the defense was indicated by defense counsel in cross-examination of witnesses and in the opening address to the blue-ribbon jury.

Jacobs To Testify
Of the three defendants, Harry Hechheimer, disbarred lawyer; Jerome Jacobs, lawyer, and Ray Derringer, movie photographer, only Jacobs was expected to testify.

George Wolf, his counsel, said Jacobs would explain that he just "happened" to be in a taxicab with his fellow defendants the day Bannister allegedly met them and paid them "hush money."

The payment allegedly occurred during the Bannister-Harding child custody fight. Bannister said the accused extortioners demanded $2,000 for affidavits of "vile and vicious" nature which they said had been made against him. After paying off, Bannister said he found the affidavits were frauds.

Not First Time
It was not the first time Bannister was the victim of extortioners, according to surprise testimony by Humbert Fugazy, sports promoter. Fugazy said Bannister once paid $2,000 to a gangster identified only as "Ben" to save himself from death at the hands of two hired gunmen of Broadway.

The last witness for the state was Lieut. James J. Finn, the little detective who gained world fame two years ago by snapping handcuffs on Bruno Richard Hauptmann in the Bronx. Finn testified that Hechheimer, after his arrest, admitted that the scheme by which the $2,000 was taken from Bannister was a shakedown.

Defense lawyers subjected Bannister to a merciless examination on his private life. Once Bannister turned to Judge Koenig and protested, but he was ordered to answer.

Trio Introduced Tuesday Night At Calvary Tabernacle

For the initial service of the Allen trio of Boyertown, Pa., Tuesday evening, the Calvary Gospel Tabernacle on the East Side was filled by one of the largest crowds of the summer.

The Allen brothers, Harold, Price and Warren, made a splendid impression as they offered a devotional program in song and story. They presented special numbers on piano, piano-accompanied, cornet, saxophone and stringed instruments, and introduced to the audience several new gospel choruses. All joined joyously in the singing, with the trio accompanying.

Warren Allen gave a sermon on the subject "God's Appointments With Men." Another brother will preach tonight. The trio is here for a six-day engagement, services each evening at 7:30.

Last night everyone was given an opportunity to get acquainted at a delightful informal campfire meeting after the service. They toasted marshmallows and united their voices in song, accompanied by tunes from piano-accompanied.

Tax Cases Are Taken To Court

Government Takes Three Tax Cases Against Benedum To Supreme Court

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The government today carried three tax cases against M. L. Benedum, well known Pittsburgh oil man, F. B. Parrott, an associate, and the Tex-Penn Oil Co., involving about $9,000,000, to the supreme court.

The court will decide, probably on Oct. 19, whether it will grant the government's petition for review of an unfavorable decision of the U. S. supreme court in Philadelphia.

The tax controversy grew out of transfer and sale of stock between the Tex-Penn and other oil companies and the individuals, who operated rich taxes leases. Benedum was a heavy financial supporter of the Roosevelt administration in the last national campaign.

Slayer Admits Jealousy Was Only Motive

Former Canadian Soldier Held For Brutal Stabbing To Death Of Ex-Sweetheart

(International News Service)
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 12.—Insane jealousy prompted Joseph J. McElroy, 47, to fatally slash his former sweetheart, Mrs. Anna Mae Johnson, 32, with a razor. Deputy Coroner Nathan C. Sachs announced the prisoner confessed to-day following a five-hour inquest.

Captured in West Haven swamps, McElroy, a former soldier in the Canadian army, was held incommunicado pending re-opening of the inquest.

Jealous Rage
Mrs. Johnson, a divorcee, was slashed from ear to ear Monday night as she walked up a stairway at a hospital dormitory, where she was employed as a nurse's helper. The deputy coroner said McElroy admitted he hid in a small closet for more than an hour waiting for Mrs. Johnson to return from a box show she had attended with two male companions. As she ascended the stairway, she was attacked. Her assailant dashed out of the dormitory while Mrs. Johnson died en route to the hospital.

Authorities said McElroy was driven insanely jealous by Mrs. Johnson's association with other men since she spurned him. He had known her six years and had been friendly with her until recently.

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The question, is Howard Hughes going to fly around the world? Remained unanswered today.

The noted sportsman and film producer explained last night that his flight from California in his big Douglas "flying laboratory," was "just business."

Speaking through Albert I. Lodwick, one of his five companions on the flight from Los Angeles, Hughes denied he was preparing for a round-the-world hop. He refused to say why he had told the federal communications commission he planned such a flight when applying for a radio sending set permit.

Two Brothers Avenge Death Of Sister By Staging Sensational Shooting

(International News Service)
DALLAS, Ga., Aug. 12.—Murder indictments will be sought for Worth and Pence Brown, middle-aged farmers who threw the court house square into wild confusion when they shot and killed their brother-in-law, Sheriff J. F. Couch indicated today.

Harry L. Howe, 49-year-old Atlantan accused of killing his wife, was being escorted to the court-house by the sheriff and three deputies when the brothers of the slain woman stepped from behind some sidewalk shrubbery and opened fire on the handcuffed man.

Howe turned and ran a few paces before falling at the feet of his body guards, mortally wounded. Six pistol bullets struck him, three entering his back.

The Browns immediately surrendered to Sheriff Couch, one of them declaring:

"This thing has been pressing on our minds until we couldn't stand it."

The mutilated body of Mrs. Hetty Brown Howe, younger sister of the brothers, was found in a woods near here last April 16. Howe was captured in Chicago suspected of murdering his wife, and returned here for trial.

Minority Stockholder Loses To SEC In Battle In Washington Court

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Victorious in a court battle with Frederick T. Fisher, minority stockholder of the Equity Corporation, the SEC today resumed its broad inquiry into investment trust practices.

Fisher, who challenged the commission's right to question Equity officials on constitutional grounds, was denied a petition for injunction by District of Columbia supreme court. The petition sought to prohibit questioning of witnesses and examination of the firm's records.

In opposing the petition, Commission Counsel David Schenker accused Fisher of seeking to obstruct the inquiry to evade being summoned for testimony regarding another company of which he was a director.

Before proceeding to the examination of Equity's affairs, the commission will delve further into the operations of the Yosemite Holding Corporation, a Detroit firm which was merged with Equity Charles Kettering, a financier, and a former official of Yosemite, has been called for testimony.

CLOSE SUCCESSFUL SEASON AT CAMP RENTZ

Y. M. C. A. Summer Camp Considered Finest In Years

Slippery Rock Beauty Spot Proves Mecca For "Y" Boys This Year

4-H CLUB BOYS READY TO OPEN

All is quiet today at Camp Fred L. Rentz, the New Castle Y. M. C. A. camp situated along the winding Slippery Rock creek 12 miles northeast of the city. The "Y" camp formally closed Tuesday.

When the busy activities of the five-week summer program ended, it brought to completion the 15th camp season of the site that is now Camp Rentz. But "Y" camps have been operated by the local institution for more than 40 years.

Termed the "most successful season in history" this summer's camp was participated in by a host of boys who filled the camp roster for several weeks somewhat over capacity.

It was back in 1922 that the Camp Rentz grounds first served as the camping spot for "Y" fellows.

That was a short time after the camping committee of the association, faced with the problem of locating a camp ground, chose the Slippery Rock section as a permanent site. It was the goal of the "Y" leaders to build a modern camp there. That has been realized.

Facilities Saw Big Change
The camp equipment consisted of three sleeping tents and a dining tent in 1922, but today a fine administration building, the beautiful Katy Did dining lodge, a handicraft building, a hospital unit and eight sleeping cabins, the gifts of generous New Castle friends, make up the facilities. Time has brought a great change. Time will enlarge it even more.

With its capacity 72 boys, Camp Rentz this season had in its cabins a total of 162 different boys representing a grand total of 342 weeks of camp life.

That, too, is a sharp contrast to the few who enjoyed "Y" camps in the earlier days.

The four-fold program of the Y. M. C. A. is followed during the camp season and Camp Director Henry T. MacNicholas, the association's physical director, always has an able staff of counselors to carry the activities out. This year was no exception. Besides the counselors on the staff are two expert cooks, who keep the appetites of the boys satisfied.

From the 1922 camp to the 1936 camp the "Y" authorities kept expanding the equipment, but the advancement program was given its main impetus when Fred L. Rentz, president of The News company, purchased the 26-acre plot and presented it as a permanent camp site. Things began to happen then. New buildings, new cabins and new improvements of this kind and that kind began to show up. The Rentz family and a group of the "Y" friends became greatly interested. That interest remains.

One stipulation Mr. Rentz made when the gift was bestowed was that a group of underprivileged boys of the city be taken to the camp for a week's outing every year. During this past week that stipulation was gladly met, as it has been every year.

Fifty "Free Campers" Out
This year 50 boy-boys of camp were provided free of charge to the boys themselves by the Kiwanis, Rotary and Pro Indus clubs and Mrs. Elizabeth McCreary, David Nessel, Jack Preston, Jack Boyles, Jack Gerson, Adolph Lang and Ben French.

Donors of cabins at the camp have included the Rentz family, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Ray, Jack Gerson, A. H. Gonick, the New Castle News and the "Y" board of directors.

Recently, when District Secretary Leo Kohl paid the camp a visit, he declared that "New Castle can well be proud of Camp Rentz and the people who have made it possible. All kinds of sports and recreation of all descriptions are afforded the campers who vacation there each year. The present season, now closed, saw an increase of 22 campers over the 1935 season.

Commenting Monday, August 17, the county's 4-H club boys will enjoy a week of camp life.

Landon Not Only Kansas Governor Pennsylvania Born

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 12.—Few persons know, according to Dr. Paul Correll of Easton, that the first territorial governor as well as the present governor of Kansas, was born in Pennsylvania. Dr. Correll, a leading Republican in Northampton county, attended the Landon notification meeting in Topeka and took great pride in pointing out this fact to Kansasians.

"The first governor of Kansas," said Dr. Correll, "was Andrew Horatio Reeder. He was born in Easton, Pennsylvania, July 12, 1807, and lived there until President Pierce appointed him governor of the territory of Kansas.

"Mr. Reeder, an attorney by profession, was a Democrat politically. However, he refused to tolerate the injustices that party inflicted on the people of his territory and fought to maintain their personal liberties at the risk of his own life.

"Unable to endure the injustices, the duplicity and the selfishness of the Democratic party, Governor Reeder severed his political allegiance and helped form the new Republican party. He was an ardent supporter of the Republican party the first time it nominated a candidate for president.

"Pennsylvania looks to Kansas in 1936, not with astonishment nor curiosity, but with a feeling of pride, for the governor Kansas in 1936 is also a native born Pennsylvanian—the second great contribution the Keystone state has made to Kansas.

"Alfred M. Landon was born in the village of West Middlesex, Pennsylvania, on September 9, 1887. With him was born independence, self-reliance, valor and thrift—qualities typical of a native Pennsylvanian."

of L's membership of between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000, are suspended; they will have no votes. Not unless the credentials committee seats them. In disregard of the executive council's suspension order, and as the credentials committee is sure to be dominated by the anti-Lewis faction, which believes in craft versus industrial unionism, it is certain that they will not be seated.

That they will be expelled is, then, a safe conclusion.

LEWIS' COMMENT
But the suggestion is made that maybe they can get their seats, even against an adverse ruling by the credentials committee, by an appeal to the courts.

When Lewis was asked whether that is what they would do, his answer was:

"No; we're afraid we'd win."

This may not be an explicit statement that they prefer to be expelled, but it verges on it.

LEWIS' REASONING
Query: If the industrialists (the labor verticals) are so confident of an A. F. of L. rank-and-file majority over the craft unionists (the horizontalists) why do they not deem it better to stay in and make their majority count than to force a split, creating two rival labor bodies?

Well, if they stay in, they will have a formidable minority, opposing and hampering them.

Moreover, the horizontalists are in present control of A. F. of L.'s officialdom. It can be displaced if the verticals are as strong as they think they are but that would involve a split too — and might waste time.

Lewis is nothing if not aggressive. His objective chosen he seeks it by the shortest route.

But he doesn't like to be placed in the position of seceding from the A. F. of L. He would rather be expelled, placing the responsibility for the split upon the old federation.

LOOKING AHEAD
Ten unions are suspended. Two more are in doubtful standing. Their chief officers are pro-Lewis, but perhaps not their rank-and-file. They cut off about 30 per cent of A. F. of L.'s membership and about 30 per cent of its revenues.

Meanwhile Lewis goes right ahead with his organization of hitherto unorganized or only slightly organized mass industries such as automobiles, steel, aluminum and the radio. He has his eye on shipbuilding also. Under recent legislation existing yards are bulging with naval construction—8,000 workers, for example, now on the job at Newport News, Va., only. Competent authorities estimate that 350 major craft will have to be built in the next five years to replace obsolete or run-down vessels to bring the American merchant fleet up to efficiency. Not only will ships have to be built; yards will have to be established, in which to build them.

Lewis' reckoning is that, four years hence, his federation should have a membership of 35,000,000 or 40,000,000—and should have absorbed the A. F. of L. almost if not quite completely.

Naturally he prefers his kind of a federation.

IN 1940?
How much politics is mixed into the situation is problematic.

Personally I think that Lewis, consciously or unconsciously, is trying to found a labor political party. Necessarily he will try to mix it with a farm party.

He has lent his aid to President Roosevelt.

If Roosevelt loses he will lose in prestige. It may not be fatal, but it will discount him somewhat. If Roosevelt wins and Lewis appears to have helped him materially.

Who knows, as to Lewis' presidentiality in 1940?

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The Postman Always Rings Once:

"Dear Mr. Aswell:
"I am 15 years old and I have never been to New York. I read a piece about some girl getting a prize for her essay on New York when she had never been there. So I am going to write about your city."

"New York is located east of the Hudson River and west of the Atlantic Ocean. It is full of skyscrapers and these are so close together in Wall Street and other small alleys that the Money Barons lean out of windows many floors above the street, exchanging tips on tomorrow's market as they do so.

"There used to be a lot of gangsters in New York. Now the govt. have shot all of these, or most of them, and the remaining ones have had to go on Relief. Now the govt. is wondering what to do about so many G-Men and is beginning to investigate them. Park Avenue is completely lined with Millionaires and their mansions, some of which are 60 and 70 stories high, with butlers and guards all around on account of kidnapping.

"The night clubs are wicked places and only the worst people go to them. Of course columnists go there on business, so no wonder. Lawrence Tibbett is the handsomest man in New York and also the most generous and the most intelligent. He makes $5,000,000 per year at the very least. Next to him is Clark Gable, except that he does not sing and does not live in New York.

"The poor people live in buildings known as slums and most of them are foreigners who do not speak English with long beards. Chinatown is full of Chinese who sell chop suey and fight in the streets with terrible Chinese weapons known as "tongs". Lawrence Tibbett is the most popular man in New York.

"All the society people go to the Metropolitan Opera every night and if they are rich enough they sit in the diamond tiara, which are sort of boxes near the stage so they can hear all the singing. The balconies are so high the stage can only be seen with strong opera glasses but the balconies are very cheap, sometimes as little as 50 cents each, and they are full of Italians with great black mustaches who love music more than life itself and stand in line all day to spend their week's wages for seats. This is extremely noble.

"All the movies in New York are out-of-date because they only get there after they have been shown everywhere else. New Yorkers do not know this. Lawrence Tibbett has the finest voice in New York. All of New York is tunneled under by subways. In the subways are all sorts of beautiful shops, parks, barbers and holdup men. The hold-up men are dangerous and usually take their victims to little-known parts of the subway and kill them. These men never get more than 10 cents for their crimes.

"Lawrence Tibbett is a marvelous host, so charming and handsome. The Mayor of New York is only four feet tall and smokes big cigars two feet long. He rides in an automobile with a radio, roof garden, ice box, stove, four secretaries and typewriter. Many years ago the Mayor of New York was named Jimmy Walker but that is over now. Lawrence Tibbett is my favorite singer, but Clark Gable was fine in 'Mutiny on the Bounty'.

"I hope I get a prize too. Sincerely, Josephine Marvane."

Reading over the above your reporter has the faint, persistent feeling that he is being kidded. But you never can tell about fifteen these days.

A girl's face may be her fortune, but that's no excuse for her to draw on it so extensively.

Man at his worst: Hiring a man to make money for you and feeling jealous because he does it so well.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police in cruiser cars during the past week or more have been performing a duty which they also perform during several months in winter. It is guarding homes of vacationists. Residents report their departure to police who watch for burglars during their absence. Immediately upon the return of the residents police should be called and notified.

It has been quite noticeable this summer that vandalism at city drinking fountains has been practically nil owing to the warning issued sometime ago by Parks and Property Director Joseph D. Alexander that anyone caught breaking fixtures on the fountains would be prosecuted.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath and Acting Chief of Police George Kennedy agreed today that something must be done to eliminate the driver of an auto who thinks so little of his own safety and that of others that he fails to obey the stop signs.

It was indicated by Mayor Charles E. McGrath today that a traffic light will be placed at North Jefferson and Grant streets. There is considerable motor vehicle and pedestrian travel there. A sign will be posted at the top of the hill warning motorists a light is at the base of the hill.

C. L. McMillen as begun making an audit of city solicitor office accounts. Streets department employees have been rushed making improvements recently one of which was the repairing of State street. Proposed curb light system for North street will be discussed by council Thursday.

However, summer does have its happier side. For instance, it is impossible now to lose money betting on the wrong football teams.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Residents Make Verbal Protests Abolishing Of Post Office Is Chief Topic For Discussion

The atmosphere throughout Mahoningtown is still filled with vigorous protests coming from residents of the entire seventh ward following the government announcement that Mahoningtown branch post office will be abandoned, starting about October 1.

At every corner, home or store, the chief topic for discussion is the post office. The petition sent out by the Seventh Ward Civic club has more than 1,000 signers. Paul D. Weller, chairman of the committee in charge of movements here, stated that the organization plans to send a representative to confer with Congressman Eckert.

Following are statements made by some of the residents of Mahoningtown relative to the post office:

Paul Weller: "A convenience such as our post office should not be removed when it has served the people of the community efficiently and conveniently for the past 50 years."

R. C. Walters, foreman: "The post office is needed because of the convenience to the people of the ward."

Mrs. Myra Anderson: "We need the post office because it has been established for 60 years."

John William Kelly, salesman: "I give the Mahoningtown P. O. $125.00 each day in money orders. It is a convenience to me, more so than the New Castle post office."

E. L. Damm, salesman: "I cannot see the logic in moving this office, as it is an absolute necessity."

C. Tindall: "It is very convenient for me to use this post office for money orders and postage."

R. F. Horchler: "The fight is on. If you have an interest in your city, do your part."

George Horchler: "The rawest deal in the history of Mahoningtown. Too raw."

Meeting Tuesday

Mrs. William Olson, Eighth street, proved a charming hostess Tuesday evening when she entertained the M. E. G. auxiliary members in her home.

Mrs. Galbreath, president, presided during the customary business session. Following a social period the hostess assisted by Mrs. Paul Bender, served appetizing refreshments. Special guests included Mrs. McClurg and Mrs. Mildred Bright. The event proved most delightful.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 8.

REPORT STIRS CONSIDERABLE EXCITEMENT IN SEVENTH WARD, TUESDAY

A rumor that Mrs. Mary Jennings of Pulaski, Alfred, a nurse, when he was a child, was passing through Mahoningtown enroute to Mr. Jackson, for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Swisher, created considerable excitement in this otherwise quiet community, Tuesday afternoon.

Together with several Pittsburgh newspapermen, a representative of The News hurried to the Mt. Jackson home but discovered the report to be false. However, Mrs. Jennings is expected at the Swisher home sometime this week. At the present she is visiting in Akron, it was learned.

THE PARENT PROBLEM
By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

STAY NEAT, SAYS EXPERT
A shave a day might keep divorce away. Protruding whiskers, like protruding petticoats, are hazardous to family happiness.

Whether a man will kiss his wife daily or not, he can't afford to be a porcupine. He should remember that she has to look at him occasionally, and if there are children, they should be considered. A certain little girl of two told her father she didn't want to kiss him any more because of the "slivers on his face". That's an awful price to pay for laziness. Just wait a minute, please—now they are off and my conscience is relieved.

One good way for man and wife to keep alive their mutual affection is for each to strive to cultivate the nice amenities of their earlier sweetheart days. All too many married couples, after the glow of the honeymoon has dimmed, will let themselves lower to the level of the commonplace, and in this respect the man is probably no worse than the woman. All of us husbands need constantly to discipline ourselves to exercise at home proper personal neatness and the social graces. If only we could hold ourselves strictly to good manners toward our loved ones.

When in any or all these matters we grow slovenly, we bespeak our lack of regard for the other's personality, and this in turn renders us less tolerant of the other and more ready to be disagreeable.

Unexpected Guest.
Once I was an unexpected guest in a certain lovely home, arriving before the father did. Soon I heard footsteps in the kitchen, then on the back stairs. The mother explained that it was her husband. "You see, because of his work his hands and clothes are soiled when he comes home, and he never wants me or the children to greet him until he has shaved, bathed and put on fresh clothes." Later he arrived looking tip-top, having prepared not for company, but for his family, for he did not know a guest was present until I met him. The mother was attractively attired, also.

How fine if all fathers, even those from offices, were as eager to look well on meeting the family, and if mothers likewise always looked near their best, if possible, to welcome the husband.

Soap and water are very cheap. Almost anyone can afford a daily bath, shower, shine, toothbrush exercise and fresh garments.

Now it might be difficult for a wife to reform a husband who has grown slovenly. Her best way, however, is to express warmly affectionate approval when he does "spruce up"—a good time for her to exercise her feminine charms on him.

NEW CASTLE MAN IS HELD IN CRASH

Golfing Events On Local Links

CONN'S CLINCH FLAG

For the second year in succession, the Conn's golf team will win the cup, symbolic of the championship of the New Castle Golf League, the team clinching first place Tuesday night, when they defeated Shenango Pottery, 5 to 1.

The standing of the league at present is somewhat in doubt, due to the fact that several of the teams have not played the matches which were postponed last week because of rain, but the first three teams will be Conn's Shenango Tin, and Shenango Pottery.

Baltimore and Ohio had to wait almost all summer to meet up with their bitter rivals, the Pennsylvania railroaders, and they were loaded for bear last night, administering the worst defeat the Pennsylvanians have suffered this season, a 5 to 1 setback. However, the Pennsylvania boys will bide their time until next summer, when they promise a different result.

The results of other matches played last evening were as follows: Pennsylvania Engineering Works 6, New Castle News 0; Melvins, 3½; Haney's, 2½; Union, Brewing 5; Johnsons, Bronze, 1; Blair Strip Steel, 4; Universal Sanitary Manufacturing 2; Reynolds, Summers and McCann, 3; Hardware Merchants, 3.

Willie Grommes, Alex Dutkin and Toke Penati were medalists with 37's. Chuck Perrotta, Joe Mazzeri, and Jack Machin had 38's; Bill Lowman, Hackett Kennedy, James A. Smith, Delmont Michaels, and Emil Mancine, had 39's, and there was a flock of 40's.

Only one more week remains in the regular season, which will be brought to a close on next Tuesday, and preparations are now under way for a banquet on Tuesday evening, August 25, when the awards will be presented to the winners.

Drought Reported Worst In History

Drought Presages Great Shortage Of Food For Humans And Livestock

More Damage By 1936 Drought Than By "Dust Storms" Of Year Of 1934 Is Claim

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The 1936 drought was definitely established today as the worst in the history of the United States, more disastrous to crops than the "dust storm" drought of 1934, and presaging a great shortage in principal food for humans and livestock this winter.

The shortest corn since production records first began to be kept, in 1881, a blighted spring wheat crop, reductions in rye, barley, hay, oats and other feeds, and in beans, apples and other foods were reported by the U. S. crop reporting board.

And those figures, based on reports as of August 1, did not take into account the continuation of the arid weather in the early days of this month, the most vital days for corn, chief of the grain crops.

Since August 1, rainfall continued far below normal for the first ten days of the month in the corn belt and western grain states, coming too late over the last week end in southern Iowa, northern Illinois and southern Missouri to save much of the corn in these high production states.

Corn Crop Damaged

As July's torrid weather slashed the corn crop at the rate of 26,000,000 bushels a day, according to the crop board's estimates as of July 1 and August 1—a total reduction for the month of 804,000,000 bushels—a continued similar reduction for the first ten days of August would slash the corn crop a further 260,000,000 bushels. This would cut the crop to 1,179,135,000 bushels, as compared with the previous low record of the last half century of 1,487,027,000 bushels in 1934. Weather forecasters held out only one hope for an increase in the crop over the August 1 estimate. That was a precedent established in 1934 On August 1 of that year, the board estimated the crop at 1,607,108,000 bushels.

Is Breaking Up

The 1934 drought broke just as this year's drought already has been partly broken in the last few days, in mid-August in the corn belt, and by September in the northern part of the grain belt. But it broke too late to save much of the corn, and the September 1 estimate was 1,484,600,000 bushels. The final yield, however, due to the rains of late August and September was some 2,500,000 bushels over the September 1 estimate.

Officials pointed out that good, heavy rains in the corn belt now might result in a crop somewhat above the estimates of August 1, but that in many sections it was too late.

For instance, rainfall in the southern half of Iowa, the biggest corn producing state, was 75 percent of normal for the first ten days of August; 89 percent of normal for the southern half of Missouri, and 70 percent of normal for the northern half of Illinois.

Appoint L. A. Clark To Bethany Staff

BETHANY, W. Va., Aug. 12.—Dr. Lawrence A. Clark of New York City, who has been in college teaching for eight years, has been appointed to the faculty of Bethany College to take charge of the department of economics and business administration, according to Dr. W. H. Cramblet, president of the college. "We feel that Dr. Clark is a man of unusual capacity and splendid experience for this position, and we are expecting him to provide instruction in this field which will be superior to what most undergraduate departments offer," Dr. Cramblet said.

CONSUELA SANCHEZ

"I loved him. I didn't mean to hurt him, but he was crying, hollering and bothering me. I was mad at him. I jumped on him, up and down, with my shoes on. Then he stopped crying and hollering because he could not any more. He just laid there." In this manner, 12-year-old Consuela Sanchez of Lordsburg, N. M., above, reputedly confessed how she caused the death of her two-year-old nephew, Manuel Rodriguez of El Paso, Tex., who died shortly after reaching a hospital. El Paso county juvenile authorities ordered Consuela to a reform school.
